

Patient Education Sleep Hygiene

What is sleep hygiene?

Sleep hygiene is a set of practices essential for having quality overnight sleep and maximizing daytime alertness and brain function.

What are signs of poor sleep hygiene?

Difficulty falling asleep, staying asleep and daytime sleepiness are all potential signs of inadequate sleep hygiene.

Strategies to Improve Sleep
Maintain a consistent	 Try to go to sleep and wake up at the same time every day
sleep-wake pattern	 Smart watches or fitness trackers can help organize/monitor sleep patterns
Napping strategies	 Avoid naps or only take short naps (less than 30 minutes) prior to 5 p.m.
Develop a relaxing pre-	 Transition to sleep with an hour of more relaxing activities in dim light
sleep routine	(reading a book, taking a bath, listening to music, meditation, etc.)
Optimize your bedroom	 Bedroom should be quiet, dark, and cool
(and bed) for sleep	 Blackout shades, eye masks, ear plugs, or noise machines can help
	 If your pet wakes you up, keep them in a separate room at night
	 Keep TV's computers, tablets, and work out of your bed and bedroom
Light exposure	 Try to maximize light exposure during the day and minimize light exposure
	prior to bed (including bright screens)
	 Use blue light filter settings (i.e. Night Shift for iPhone) or apps (for Android)
Do not force sleep	 If you are not asleep after 20 minutes, get out of bed and do something relaxing in another room until you feel tired. Avoid turning on lights/screens.
Avoid clock watching	 While falling asleep or if you wake up in the middle of night, clock watching can prevent falling asleep
Avoid stimulants close to bedtime	 Avoid caffeine (coffee, tea, chocolate, pop/soda) and nicotine for 4-6 hours before sleep
Do not drink alcohol close to bedtime	It may help falling asleep, but disrupts sleep quality later in the night
Exercise	 Exercise daily, but only do vigorous exercise at least 3 hours before bedtime
Plan meals around your sleep schedule	Avoid large meals or foods that cause indigestion within 3 hours of bedtime

Questions

The CORE Institute is dedicated to your outcome. If any questions or concerns arise, please call 1.866.974.2673.

© 2019 The CORE Institute Date 7.16.2019